DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-10 and 24-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.
3. Claims 1 and 24 repeatedly use the limitation “finger” to refer to different fingers – the replacement finger and the finger to be replaced. As such, the claims are confusing and indefinite as to which finger is being referenced. For clarity, it is suggested that Applicant employ the language used in claim 11 by referring to a “first elongate finger” and a “second elongate hollow finger”.
4. Claims 1-10 and 24-31 are also indefinite because it is unclear whether Applicant intends to claim the combination – the harvester reel, the hollow finger, and the broken finger – or just the subcombination of the hollow finger. Since claims 1-10 and 24-31 seem focused on the structure of the hollow replacement finger, the claims are treated in the following art rejection as being directed to the subcombination.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3671

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

6. Claims 1,2, 4-7, 24, 25, 28-31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 1,471,989 to Weis.

The Weis '989 patent discloses a finger for receiving a first finger comprising an elongate hollow finger (13) having a cavity that receives the first finger (11). A fastener (16) adjacent the fastening end of the hollow finger fastens the hollow finger over the finger finger.

Regarding claims 2, 4-7: The bottom of the hollow finger is curved. The shape (even though not the size) of the finger is a substantial replicate of the first finger. The hollow finger receives the first finger – whether broken or not. The fastener (16) fastens the hollow finger to the first finger by friction.

Regarding claims 24, 25, 28-31: The method would be inherent as the normal and logical manner in which the finger of the Weis '989 patent would be used.

7. Claims 1-3, 6, 11-13, 16, 23, 24, 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 6,199,357 to Bloom.

The Bloom '357 patent discloses a finger (2) for receiving a finger (1) of a harvester reel. The finger comprises an elongate hollow finger having a cavity (16, 17) arranged to receive a portion of the finger (1) of the harvesting reel. A fastener (9) fastens the finger (2) to the finger (1) of the harvesting reel.

Regarding claims 2-3, 6, 11-13, 16, 23, 24, 26: The finger (2) is curved (Fig. 4) and smaller in cross-section at the end distal to the attachment location. The fastener fastens the finger to the harvester reel pickup tine. The finger of the harvester reel includes a clamping portion (4). The pickup tine includes a wing (34, 35).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

9. Claims 8, 9, 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S.

Patent No. 1,471,989 to Weis in view of U.S. Patent No. 4,706,448 to Gessel et al.

The Weis '989 patent discloses the claimed invention, as stated in the paragraph above, except for the elongate hollow finger being mounted to the first finger through a split ring arrangement. The Gessel '448 patent teaches that it is known in the art to mount fingers (22) to a working implement using split rings. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the Weis '989 patent with the split ring mounting arrangement as taught by the Gessel '448 patent, in order to provide an alternative means of quickly mounting a finger.

Allowable Subject Matter

10. Claim 10 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

11. Claims 14, 15, 18-22 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
